

Workshop on Specialized Bereavement Care: The theory, practice and evidence of the Dual-Process Bereavement Group

Bereavement care is for supporting those who are affected by the death of their family members or close friends. It is an integral part in end-of-life care. Widowhood is a common life experience in older population. This two-day workshop targeted at health and social care professionals who will use bereavement group in supporting bereaved persons. It will introduce the Dual Process Model (DPM), a leading theory in the field, and the evidence based group intervention developed based on this model. Participants will learn about the design, the practical skills and the impact of this intervention model applied in the Hong Kong Chinese context.