

End-of-Life Care Training for HKU Social Work Students

Hong Kong is facing a growing demand of end-of-life care services in the community due to the rapidly ageing population. This imposes great challenges for social workers across different service settings. In order to equip our social work students with basic End-of-Life Care knowledge, you are cordially invited to participate in a designated course organised by the Jockey Club End-of-Life Community Care (JCECC), Project of the Faculty of Social Sciences.

Topics covered:

- Values and principles of End-of-Life Care
- Psychosocial Needs Assessment & Interventions
- Communication with Patients of Terminal Illness and their Families
- End-of-Life Decisions & Advance Care Planning
- Bereavement Care
